

Prof. Henriëtte Moll

Prof. Henriëtte Moll, MD, PhD is a pediatrician-epidemiologist at the Department of General Paediatrics at the Erasmus MC – Sophia Children’s Hospital, Rotterdam, The Netherlands. Her Research focus on decision making in Paediatric Emergency Care e.g. studies on triage, screening on child abuse, management and early identification of serious infections in the febrile child. She participates in several international research consortia: International reference MTS group, EUSEM-REPEM, Horizon 2020 consortia PERFORM and DIAMONDS. She published more than 400 peer reviewed papers and trained more than 30 PhD students. She founded pediatric emergency medicine in The Netherlands.